

The map displays a topographic representation of a region, likely in Italy, centered around the area of CP Lettere. The terrain is characterized by a network of contour lines and a river system. A proposed railway line, indicated by a dashed line, runs through the area, with stations or points labeled VAL42 through VAL51. The map is overlaid with a grid of colored zones, primarily in shades of red, yellow, and green, which may represent different land use categories or administrative boundaries. The area is divided into several municipalities, including CP Lettere and Cornate d'Adda. The map also shows a grid of blue lines, possibly representing a road network or a specific planning grid.